To Get a Job in Your 50s, Maintain Friendships in Your 40s.

We hear it all the time: People who are over 50 take longer to find jobs than younger people. Connie Wanberg, a professor at the Carlson School of Management at the University of Minnesota, had long heard gloom-and-doom stories to that effect, but she wondered how strong the data was to support them.Very, as it turned out. According to a study by Professor Wanberg and others, job seekers over 50 were unemployed 5.8 weeks longer than those from the ages of 30 to 49. That number rose to 10.6 weeks when the comparison group was from 20 to 29. Professor Wanberg and three other researchers — Darla J. Hamann, Ruth Kanfer and Zhen Zhang — arrived at those numbers by analyzing and synthesizing hundreds of studies by economists, sociologists and psychologists.But it is important not to jump to conclusions about the cause, Professor Wanberg said. "It's not very unusual for everybody to think that the reason for the difficulty in finding jobs at 50s is discrimination," she said. That can sometimes be the case, but the reality is that the behavior required to find work does not play to many older people's strengths. Once they become aware of this, they can act to compensate.In their study, the researchers found that older people on average had smaller social networks than younger people, Professor Wanberg said. This is not necessarily bad — as we age, many of us find that the quality of our relationships is more important than the quantity. But in the job search process, the number of connections we maintain in our professional and personal networks is often critical. As people age, they also tend to stay in the same job longer, consistent with a pattern of wanting to put down roots. During that time, the skills people have learned and the job search strategies they once used may become outdated — especially as technology evolves ever more quickly.The cure for these drawbacks is fairly straightforward. Once you hit your early 40s, even if you are not looking for a job, work to learn new skills and stretch yourself, Professor Wanberg said. Also, keep your networks strong by staying in touch with former colleagues and classmates, along with current co-workers and clients whom you don't see regularly, she said.Finding a job after 50 doesn't have to be as discouraging as it is often portrayed to be, Professor Wanberg said. Just recognize that some of the obstacles you face are inherent to the aging process, she said. She stressed that her findings reflected only averages and that individual behavior varies greatly. Certainly, many older people maintain wide social circles and often learn skills. But in general, older job seekers must take more steps to find employment than younger ones, she said.Once older workers do find a new employer, they can use their knowledge, wisdom and emotional intelligence — qualities that older people often possess in abundance — to thrive in their new positions.

1. The word "gloom-and-doom" in the first paragraph could be best replaced by:

- A. hopeless
- B. interesting
- C. strange
- D. cheerful

2. According to the study, which age group has the least unemployed time?

- A. from 20 to 29
- B. from 30 to 49
- C. over 50
- D. less than 20

3. In the third paragraph, what best paraphrases the sentence "It's not very unusual for everybody to think that the reason for the difficulty in finding jobs at 50s is discrimination"?

- A. People commonly believe that discrimination makes finding jobs at 50s difficult.
- B. People do not usually think about the cause of discrimination in finding jobs at 50s.
- C. People do not usually think that discrimination is the reason for the difficulty at 50s.
- D. People commonly believe that finding jobs at 50s causes discrimination.

4. The word "their" in paragraph 4 refers to

- A. social networks

TOPIC: RELATIONSHIP

Read the passage and choose the best answer A or B to the following questions.

The proverb 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' means that we shall know who our real friends are when we are in need. Those who desert us when we are in difficulty are just unfaithful friends.

A true friend would remain with us whether we are rich or poor. Some people befriend the rich, simply for the sake of getting benefits from them.

It is useless to have insincere friends because these friends remain with us as long as we are rich or powerful. It is better to have one or two good friends rather than having hundreds of insincere ones.

A true friend will stand by us in our trials and tribulations. He will be a great source of consolation and comfort in our troubles. So we must be careful in choosing our friends. It is difficult to choose a sincere friend overnight; it takes years for us to find a sincere friend.

1. Real friends share everything we need.

B. False

2. Unfaithful friends stop being our friends when we are in trouble.

TOPIC: RELATIONSHIP

Read the passage and choose the best answer A or B to the following questions.

The proverb 'A friend in need is a friend indeed.' means that we shall know who our real friends are when we are in need. Those who desert us when we are in difficulty are just unfaithful friends.

A true friend would remain with us whether we are rich or poor. Some people befriend the rich, simply for the sake of getting benefits from them.

It is useless to have insincere friends because these friends remain with us as long as we are rich or powerful. It is better to have one or two good friends rather than having hundreds of insincere ones.

A true friend will stand by us in our trials and tribulations. He will be a great source of consolation and comfort in our troubles. So we must be careful in choosing our friends. It is difficult to choose a sincere friend overnight; it takes years for us to find a sincere friend.

1. Real friends share everything we need.

A. True

B. False

2. Unfaithful friends stop being our friends when we are in trouble.

Last year I went to Nepal for three months to work in a hospital. I think it's important to see as much of a country as you can, but it is difficult to travel around Nepal. The hospital let me have a few holidays, so I decided to go into the jungle and I asked a Nepalese guide, Kamal Rai, to go with me.

We started preparing for the trip at six in the morning, and left camp with two elephants carrying our equipment. It was hot but Kamal made me wear shoes and trousers to protect me from snakes. In the jungle, there was a lot of wildlife, but we were trying to find big cats, especially tigers. We climbed onto the elephants' backs to get better view, but it is unusual to find tigers in the afternoon because they sleep in the heat of the day.

Then, in the distance, we saw a tiger, and Kamal told me to be very quiet. We crept nearer and found a dead deer, still bleeding. This was the tiger's lunch! Suddenly I started to feel very frightened. We heard the tiger a second before we saw it. It jumped out like a flash of lightning, five hundred kilos plus and four meters long. I looked into its eyes and face, and saw right down the animal's throat. It grabbed Kamal's leg between its teeth, but I managed to pull Kamal away. One of our elephants ran at the tiger and made it go back into the grass, so we quickly escaped to let the tiger eat its lunch. That night it was impossible to sleep!

1. When having a few days off, he decided to go into ____.

A. the remote villages

B. it's so hot at this time
C. the elephants' back wasn't high enough to get view
D. tigers hardly hunt in the heat of the day

B. saw them a second before they saw it
C. jumped out very fast

B. The writer was made to wear shoes and trousers to protect him from the heat of the day.
C. Kamal narrowly escaped being killed.

-String instrument: nhạc cụ có dây

-Be inspired by : lấy cảm hứng bởi

-Primitive times: thời đại nguyên thủy

-Harp: đàn hạc

-Identify: xác định

-Widespread (adj): lan rộng, phổ biến

-Hieroglyphics: chữ tượng hình

-Traced back: truy tìm nguồn gốc

-Appertain to = relate to: liên quan

I. VOCABULARY QUESTION

Exercise 1 (p.140)

The oldest known string instrument is the harp. It seems that it may have been inspired by the hunter's bow in primitive times. Rock paintings of harp-like instruments have been found in France that date back to 15,000 B.C. Images of harps have also been identified in Egyptian hieroglyphs on the tomb of Pharaoh Ramses III. Harps were also in widespread use in Scotland and Ireland. The word "harp" can be traced back to words in Anglo-Saxon, Old German, and Old Norse. These all aptly appertain to a single meaning, "to pluck."

- The word aptly in the passage is closest in meaning to
  A. oddly B. appropriately C. precisely D. tastelessly

Aptly = Appropriately: thích hợp, thích đáng

Exercise 2 (p.140)

-Consist of = include in: bao gồm

-Myriads: mười ngàn, vô số

-Frozen precipitation: lượng tuyết đông

-Stratum: địa chất, tầng lớp xã hội / strata (plural noun)

-Droplet: giọt nhỏ

-Cluster: cụm

-Sizable (adj): cỡ lớn, đáng kể

-Fragment: mảnh vỡ, khúc đoạn

-Moisture: độ ẩm

-Subsequent: tiếp theo

Exercise 2 (p.140)

A snowfall consists of myriads of minute ice crystals that fall to the ground in the form of frozen precipitation. The formation of snow begins with these ice crystals in the subfreezing strata of the middle and upper atmosphere when there is an adequate supply of moisture present. At the core of every ice crystal is minuscule nucleus, a solid particle of matter around which moisture condenses and freezes. Liquid water droplets floating in the supercooled atmosphere and free ice crystals cannot coexist within the same cloud, since the vapor pressure of ice is less than that of water. This enables the ice crystals to rob the liquid droplets of their moisture and grow continuously. The process can be very rapid, quickly creating sizable ice crystals, some of which adhere to each other to create a cluster of ice crystals or a snowflake. Simple flakes possess a variety of beautiful forms, usually hexagonal, though the symmetrical shapes reproduced in most microscope photography of snowflakes are not usually found in actual snowfalls. Typically, snowflakes in actual snowfalls consist of broken fragments and clusters of adhering ice crystals.

1. The word minute is closest in meaning to
   A. tiny B. quick C. clear D. sharp
2. The word adhere is closest in meaning to
   A. belong B. relate C. stick D. speed

Exercise 2 (p.140)

For a snowfall to continue once it starts, there must be a constant inflow of moisture to supply the nuclei. This moisture is supplied by the passage of an airstream over a water surface and its subsequent lifting to higher regions of the atmosphere. The Pacific Ocean is the source of moisture for most snowfalls west of the Rocky Mountains, while the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean feed water vapor into the air currents over the central and eastern sections of the United States. Other geographical features also can be the source of moisture for some snowstorms. For example, areas adjacent to the Great Lakes experience their own unique lake-effect storms, employing a variation of the process on a local scale. In addition, mountainous sections or rising terrain can initiate snowfalls by the geographical lifting of a moist airstream.

3. The word initiate is closest in meaning to

A. enhance B. alter C. increase D. begin

-Adhere to = stick to: dính

-Minute (adj) = tiny: nhỏ vụn

-Initiate = begin: bắt đầu

Exercise 1 (p.144)

Saturn, last of the planets visible to the unaided eye, is almost twice as far from the sun as Jupiter. It is second in size to Jupiter, but its mass is much smaller. New World Epidemics

A huge loss of life resulted from the introduction of Old World diseases into the Americas in the early sixteenth century. The inhabitants of the Americas were separated from Asia, Africa, and Europe by rising oceans following the Ice Ages, and, as a result, they were isolated by means of this watery barrier from numerous virulent epidemic diseases that had developed across the ocean, such as measles, smallpox, pneumonia, and malaria. Pre-Columbian Americans had a relatively disease-free environment but also lacked the antibiotics needed to protect them from bacteria and viruses brought to America by European explorers and colonists. A devastating outbreak of disease that strikes for the first time against a completely unprotected population is known as a virgin soil epidemic. Virgin soil epidemics contributed to an unbelievable decline in the population of native inhabitants of the Americas, one that has been estimated at as much as an 80 percent decrease of the native population in the centuries following the arrival of Europeans in the Americas.

EXERCISE 1 (p.148)

Hermit crabs occupy the empty shells of dead sea snails for protection while still retaining their mobility. They are capable of discriminating among a selection of shells of various sizes and species, and they choose the one that fits the body most closely. Hermit crabs change shells as they grow, although in some marine environments a large enough variety of shells may not be available and the hermit crab may be forced to occupy a smaller-than-ideal "house." When a shell becomes too small for the hermit crab to occupy, it will sometimes become aggressive and fight other hermit crabs to gain a larger shell.

Hermit crabs may encounter empty shells in the course of their daily activity, but the vacant shell is usually spotted by sight. The hermit crab's visual response increases with the size of an object and its contrast against the background. The hermit crab then seizes the shell with its walking legs and climbs on it, monitoring its size. If the size is right, the crab investigates its shape and texture by rolling it over between its walking legs and running its claws over the surface. Once the shell's opening has been located, the crab uses its claws to remove any foreign material before preparing to enter. The crab rises above the opening, flexes its abdomen, and enters the shell backward. The shell interior is monitored by the abdomen as the crab repeatedly enters and withdraws. When completely satisfied with its new mobile home, the hermit crab will emerge one last time, turn the shell over and make a final entrance.

1. According to the passage, hermit crabs occupy vacant shells for

A. mobility
B. flexibility
C. protection
D. discrimination

2. According to the passage, a hermit crab changes shells when it

A. outgrows the one it has
B. hunts for food
C. becomes aggressive
D. locates any vacant shell

3. According to the passage, the way in which hermit crabs locate empty shells is through which of the following senses?

A. Hearing
B. Touch
C. Taste
D. Sight
